

ABSTRACT

The semiconductor device comprising a chalcogenide phase change material. The chalcogenide material being 5 programmed from one resistance state to another resistance state by applying a programming current to a resistor which is in thermal contact with the chalcogenide material. The semiconductor device may be used as memory element or as a programmable fuse.

10